

Name _____

A conjunction joins words and clauses.

Example: Eat the apple and the banana
The word 'and' is a conjunction.

There can be more than one conjunction in a sentence.

Example: Eat the apple and the banana but not the orange.

The words 'and' + 'but' are conjunctions.

Underline the conjunctions in each sentence.

1. The bear and the dog like each other.
2. Not the red bear but the blue one!
3. The bear can jump and run fast.
4. I thought he came when you arrived.
5. Walk across the road and see Tim, but watch out for cars.
6. Blue and yellow make green, but red and yellow make orange.
7. The bear and the lion do fight when they are together.
8. I will pay you if you work hard.
9. If you do come, I will help.
10. She can not run but she can walk if she wants to.
11. Sweets are not healthy but fruit is if you eat it every day.
12. Nana will come when Pop gets here, if he gets here!

